1 1 1

Nestled away down a gravel drive is this beautifully renovated 1900's cottage. Within walking distance to York's amenities, this private residence is hidden away from the public eye.

The original one-bedroom home has been restored throughout. From painting, to styling, plumbing to re-wiring. The cottage charm can still be felt and admired with panelled ceilings, wood fireplaces to the main areas, original floorboards and claw bath as a feature in the bathroom. But then there are the newer, modern details and immaculate finishes, which as a perfect combination, create a sort of calming environment.

There is the potential here for a range of layouts. Currently the home is set up with one bedroom and two living areas, however, there is the ability to have two bedrooms. A bright
